

SINGING CICADAS

Research Intern

Singing Cicadas is a socially conscious and impact driven multi-media production start-up based in Hong Kong. As one of the Cicadas for this post, you will mainly work for one of our flagship projects, 'Creativity is'.

Creativity is (www.creativityis.me), is a multi-year project to activate the hidden 'creativity' of the people in Hong Kong, in relation to the concepts of identity and meaning in life. It has created a range of productions from a short documentary, an online interactive journey, experimental experiences, a collection of everyday stories and more. As a Research Intern here, you will need to (but not limited to):

Responsibilities (including but not limited to):

- Brainstorm, research and develop concepts relevant to identity
- Identify needs and characteristics of our audiences through collecting and analysing qualitative and quantitative data
- Find effective ways to communicate and present concepts and data
- Manage and update database
- Support the team in daily administrative tasks
- Juggle multiple tasks at a time

Requirements (in this order of importance):

- Bachelor/ Master students in Psychology, Sociology, Cultural Studies, Communications, Marketing, Statistics, or other related disciplines
- Proficient in written and spoken Chinese and English
- Solid understanding of qualitative and quantitative research methods
- Ability to think critically and innovatively
- Excellent knowledge of Microsoft Office
- Can-do attitude, flexible, self-aware, proactive, willing to learn and try new things
- Generous team player with an eye for details and the ability to multitask and work independently

Every day of work will be different and will be a challenge. You will also be exposed to all aspects of the media production industry. The period of our internship programme will be 8 weeks and you will work 2 days a week. If you have the appetite for growth and you want to be a part of a team that creates work with purpose, then you should send us your full resume, an atypical email about who you are and date of availability to Holly at hc@singingcicadas.com.
